SYNCOM 2026, the Commerce and Management Fest organized at Sophia College (Autonomous), Ajmer, was held on 18th and 19th February 2026. It was a two-day event filled with energy, participation, and a really good mix of fun and learning. Students actively took part in different activities, making the overall atmosphere very lively and engaging.

On the first day, events like Pixnary, Corporate Roadies, and Sell It or Scrap It were conducted, where participants got to test their business knowledge, creativity, and thinking skills in a fun and competitive way. The second day mainly focused on the Build a Company competition, where teams worked step-by-step to build a company based on the clues provided. Along with this, there were various stalls put up by students, especially budding entrepreneurs, offering different products and food items, which added a very practical and real-world business feel to the fest.

Overall, the fest was not just about competitions but also about learning by doing. It helped improve communication, teamwork, and confidence among students. It also gave a basic idea of how businesses work in real life, especially through pitching and stall activities. Apart from that, it was a great space for networking, meeting new people, and building connections. SYNCOM 2026 turned out to be a really fun and meaningful experience, combining learning with enjoyment in the best way.

LEARNING OUTCOME

1. Students developed essential skills like leadership, teamwork, communication etc while giving them hands on experience in organising events and solving real-world business challenges.
2. The fest helped students learn the intricacies of management and the applications of it in real-time.
3. The fest gave students a platform to showcase their talents and abilities.
